Teach Your Easter Traditions

By Dr. R. Pletsch

Parents or grandparents have an opportunity this week to teach the young ones in their families about their traditions. Is Easter special or not with your family and why? The children of our community are more reliant than anyone can remember. We only have one Catholic school remaining, all others have closed as did the three Lutheran schools we had at one time. Some of our kids go out of the neighborhood, like to Mother Teresa School in Bridgeport. Some of our students do attend parishes and congregations that still have Religious Ed programs on the weekends. This means most need the families to spark their Kids in general find Easter special. There's the Easter bunny, colored eggs, candy and maybe new clothes. Some other traditions include hiding the eggs, visiting relatives. Some have a family dinner maybe with an Ethnic specialty. Some do worship together.

Most of the children in our community are at least nominally Christian. We do have a few Jews and Buddhists. A large number are "unchurched". Therefore, they have little idea of the theology that is involved. This is the family's responsibility if you choose to accept it.

If you celebrate, may you have a pleasant Easter time with your loved ones. As many of the immigrants I knew as a kid in Back of the Yards would say, "Christ is Risen". Those that will not be celebrating may you have a great day. Remember, our children can be like sponges, soak up all that is occurring and to some degree or another, always watching us and our actions. These observations become part of the total of their adult

Art on the Mart Spring Programs

Spring 2021 Programming of the Art on the Mart projections will feature The Adler Planetarium, April 1st to July 4th and Art Institute of Chicago April 1st to May 19th at 8:30 and 9:30 p.m.

Astrographics will explore ways in which humans conceptualize and visualize their universe, and how that has changed over time. The piece will consist of four movements (Earth, Other Worlds, Stars and Beyond) which will trans-Worlds.port the viewer from Earth to other planets and stars, then out to deeper and more speculative realms. Each of these movements features scientific visualizations based on real data showing the scale of the uni-

The visuals, produced by the Adler Planetarium, are woven together with imagery from the world's telescopes and works on paper from the Adler's collections. Accompanying the projection will be music from the Sun Ra Arkestra archives from the Experimental Sound Studio. Astrographics artistically showcases both historic perceptions of space and more recent advances in the understanding of the universe.

In conjunction with the Art Institute of Chicago's exhibition Monet and Chicago, Art on the MART illuminates the city's historic riverfront building with projections of six iconic paintings by famed famed Claude Impressionist Monet, including Monet's

Water Lilies and Stacks of Wheat, accompanied by the classical music composition "Clair de Lune" by Claude Debussy

Art on theMART will also project captivating portraits by contemporary American artist Bisa Butler in alignment with the Art Institute of Chicago's exhibition Bisa Butler: Portraits.

Gift Inspires Girls For STEM Careers

A.M. DRAKE

The Museum of Science and Industry, Chicago marked Women's History Month announcing a new initiative to encourage girls to enter STEM careers, thanks to a generous gift from business leader and MSI Trustee Ann M. Drake.

The donation will inspire and motivate all children to achieve their full potential in science, technology, engineering and math.

The new initiative focuses on girls in grades 4 through 8. Gender differences in learning appear in adolescence and persist through high school and post-sec-ondary study, contribut-ing to significant work force disparities: in 2019 women comprised 51% of the national population but only 27% of the STEM workforce.

The Museum will conduct research to assess the current landscape of gender-inclusive STEM learning for its audiences and identify opportuni-

Programs will begin summer. Museum hopes to engage over 3,000 girls annually through direct programming efforts.

Drake also made a gift to support the development of a new exhibit about space exploration. The current exhibit, the Henry Crown Space Center, showcases mission-flown spacecraft like the Apollo 8 module and Aurora 7 capsule.

Drake joined her family business in 1990 and soon became CEO in a male-dominated industry. During her tenure, DSC Logistics became one of the nation's leading supply chain management companies. For spearheading this transformation, she received the Committee of 200's Entrepreneurial Champion Luminary Award in 2018 among other honors.

Debt Forgiveness For Utility Bills

Mayor Lori E. Lightfoot announced that the City has set aside $8.9 million in potential debt forgiveness for eligible homeowners enrolled in the Chicago Utility Billing Relief Program, a debt relief initiative that reduces the cost of water, sewer, and water-sewer tax portions of utility bills for low-income residents. Launched in April 2020, the City has already cut in half the water utility bills for 8,539 participants, and the City anticipates setting aside more forgivable utility debt in 2021 as more qualified customers sign up for the program. UBR Program enrollees are eligible for total debt forgiveness on their past due balance.

The UBR program provides low-income residents with a 50 percent reduced rate on their water, sewer, and watersewer taxes, as well as debt forgiveness on their outstanding utility balance for those who pay the reduced rate for one year. Over the course of the year, customers are not required to make any payments on their set aside balance and collection and shut-off activity is sus-pended during enrollment. Since implementation in April, enrollees have averaged $1,044 in outstanding utility debt

While working in partnership with CEDA of Cook County, who operates the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program, the City has engaged in a public education campaign to enroll homeowners who meet program qualifications. Eligibility criteria includes: must reside in the City of Chicago; must be a homeowner who resides in a single-family home or two-flat; and Income must be at or below 200% of the Federal Poverty Level, i.e., the 30-day income for a family of four cannot exceed $4,367.

Homeowners are encouraged to check their eligibility at www.chicago. gov/ubr and follow the prompts to complete the income verification process. For more information, contact the City's Utility Billing & Customer Service Center at (312) 744-4426 or utilitybill@cityofchicago.org.

Residents who do not qualify for the UBR Program may be eligible for a Senior Citizen Sewer Exemption. This program grants a sewer charge and sewer tax exemption to seniors aged 65 or over who own and occupy their own residence. The property must have a separate metered water service or city water assessment. Seniors who do not qualify for the exemption because they own and occupy a townhome, condominium unit, or cooperative unit with a shared water service or assessment may qualify for the Annual $50 Senior Citizen Sewer Re-

The City offers several utility bill payment plans for residents including a 6-, 12-, 18-, 24-, or 36-month payment plan, which are accessible online or by phone. For more information, contact at (312) 744-4426 or utilitybill@cityofchicago.org.
